A Law Has Been Passed... What Happens Next?

ProQuest Regulatory Insight offers researchers unique insight into regulatory histories associated with Public Laws from 1936-present, in this companion to the Legislative Insight collection. Regulatory Insight content and functionality enable discovery and analysis related to historic and current regulations, and help students grasp the regulatory process. Users benefit from the ability to quickly access expertly compiled regulatory histories associated with specific Public Laws.

Regulatory Insight content and features include:

- Regulatory histories created by professional researchers compiling Federal Register articles associated with Public Laws and Executive Orders, with functionality to support your research
- Agency View pages compiling final rules promulgated by that agency, with links to recent proposed and final rules; and links to predecessor/successor agencies and agencies with related jurisdiction over CFR Parts
- Comments associated with FR articles from Regulations.gov archived and organized by RIN number and docket number, with links from FR articles and regulatory histories
- Fully searchable PDFs of all Parts from CFR volumes 1938-present with browse and search options
- Fully searchable PDFs of all Federal Register issues from 1936-present, with browse and search options, as well as individual PDFs of all Federal Register articles with links to comments and regulatory histories

- High-level subject indexing associated with CFR Parts to facilitate topic-based research
- Content-specific filters for each compilation page

Regulatory Histories associated with Public Laws include:

- Federal Register articles organized by RIN (if available), with links to associated contemporaneous CFR Parts
- Links to current CFR Parts associated with the Public Law
- Public Law text and bibliographic information
- Additional controlled vocabulary subject indexing harmonized with Legislative Insight
- Links to Comments Archive

Regulatory Histories associated with Executive Orders include:

- Federal Register articles
- Links to histories of related Executive Orders

Agency View compilations include:

- Final rules promulgated by the agency.
- Links to recent proposed and final rules
- Links to rules of predecessor and successor agencies and agencies with related jurisdiction over CFR Parts. These links address problems caused by government reorganization, which can make it difficult to trace the history of a regulation from the department/agency perspective.

Comments Archive includes:

- Find terms look-up for commenting agencies and organizations
- Ability to limit results to comments with attachments
- Ability to limit results to comment period open or closed
