RCL use case :: Selecting new course content

Planning a new course? Use RCL to build syllabi and support pedagogical objectives with credible content for students.

With RCL you can:

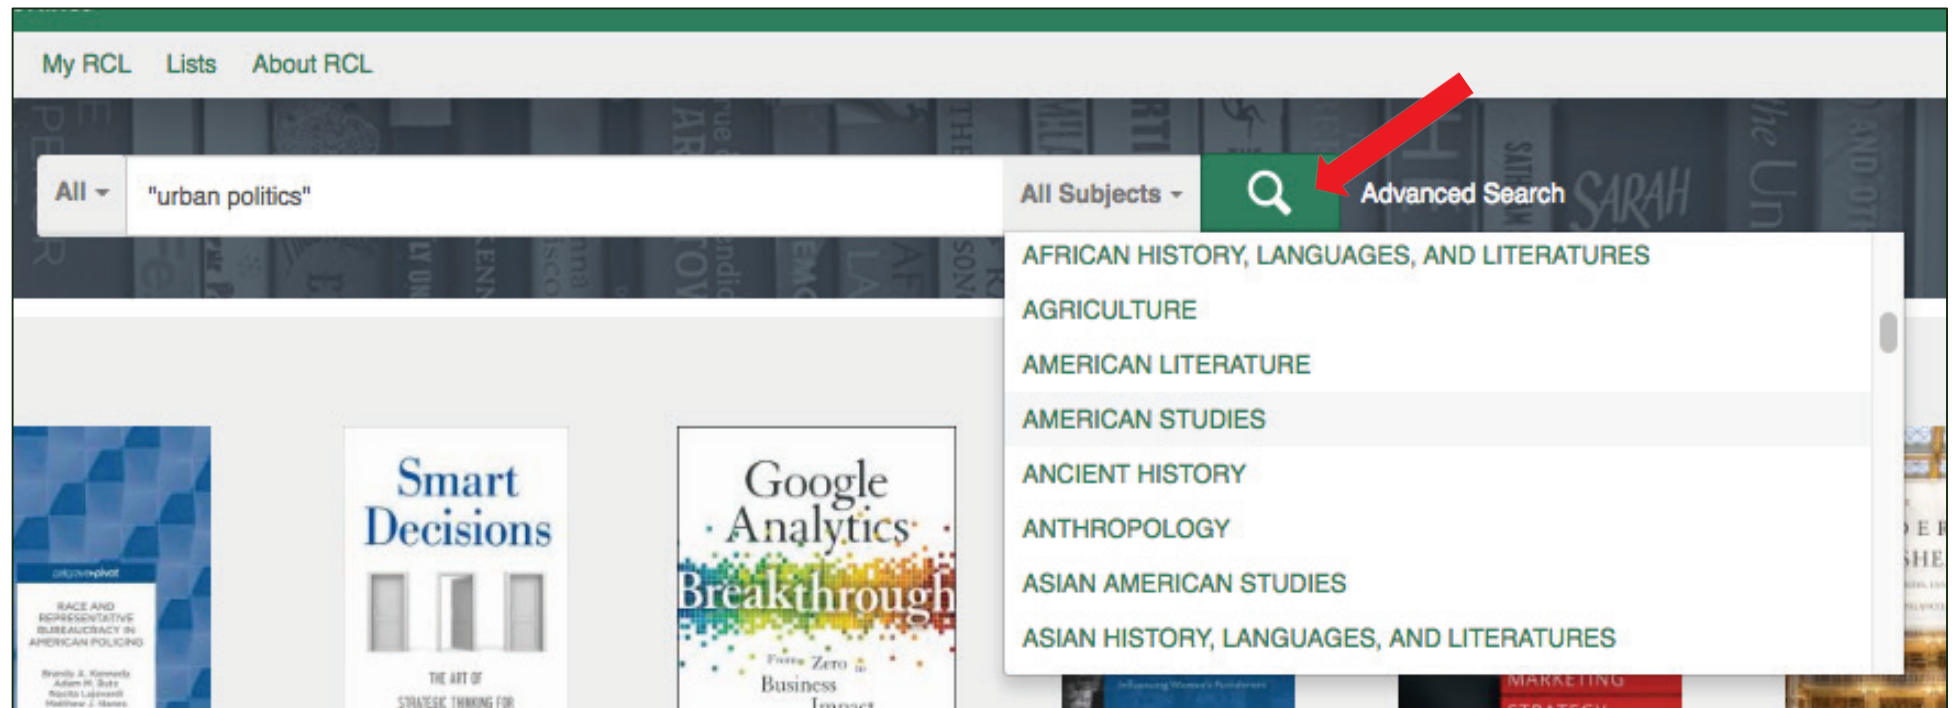

- discover essential titles in the subject,
- identify further readings to support the textbook, and
- find appropriate content by discipline and student level.

Identify core works by topic :: Quick search

Use Quick Search and enter keywords. For example, here we are finding titles for a new course in “urban politics”.

From Quick Search, you can search across all RCL subjects or limit by subject discipline.

Identify core works by topic :: Browse by subject

- ☐ URBAN STUDIES
 - ☐ Cities in the Arts
 - ☐ City Biographies
 - ☐ General and Reference
 - ☐ Urban Development
 - ☐ Urban Geography
 - ☐ Urban History
 - ☐ Urban Planning and Sustainability
 - ☒ Urban Politics and Public Policy
 - ☐ Urban Sociology

Browse by subject discipline to retrieve titles assigned to a particular program area.

For example, you can quickly find all titles selected for the Urban Politics and Public Policy section of RCL's Urban Studies subject.
